

Col. Merle Woodall Endowment

The Col. Merle Woodall Endowment, named after the founder of the LSC Meteorology Department, honors the memory of "The Colonel." We fondly remember his belief in the importance of promoting quality education and his wonderful student-friendly and practical approach toward assisting student success. To honor these memories, the Met Dept will use the interest accruing from this endowment to promote quality student research in meteorology and to assist students with gaining recognition for their work. Specifically, these funds will be used to assist a LSC Met major who has research accepted by the American Meteorological Society for presentation at their Annual Meeting with defraying the costs of attending the meeting and preparing the presentation.
